

Broadband internet access over telephone or power lines should not interfere with Amateur Radio communications so that emergency communications capabilities are not affected.